Background

According to the 2010 Yearbook of American and Canadian Churches, there are 2.1 million U.S. members in over 7,000 churches or parishes.

- Membership is concentrated along the East Coast with New York, the District of Columbia, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and Virginia having the highest number of members.
- The state of New York has the highest membership for a single state with 200,000 members.

In keeping with Anglican tradition and theology, the Episcopal Church considers itself Protestant, yet Catholic.

The Episcopal church is responsible for:

- Over 1,200 schools, early childhood education programs, and school exploration, establishment, and expansion efforts
- 11 colleges and universities
- 11 seminaries
- Three schools of theology

In 2010, there were:

- 22,098 Cub Scouts in 490 packs
- 17,345 Boy Scouts in 591 troops
- 1,918 Venturers in 162 crews

How the Episcopal Church Is Organized

The Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America (as it was called, now referred to simply as The Episcopal Church) was formally organized in 1789 in Philadelphia upon adoption of the Constitution of the United States of America and the formal separation of the church from the Church of England.

- Though fully separate of the Church of England, the Episcopal Church remained in “Communion” with the Church of England and its many churches that were established as the British Empire spread.
- Now referred to as the Anglican Communion, this loose confederation of churches throughout the world is considered second in size to the Roman Catholic Church (from which the Church of England originated from during the reign of King Henry VIII).
- The Anglican Communion is led by, but not controlled by, the Archbishop of Canterbury, who is appointed by the English monarch and approved by the British Parliament.

The governance of the Episcopal Church is Episcopal polity, similar to other Anglican churches.

Each parish elects a vestry or bishop’s committee. Subject to the diocesan bishop, the vestry of each parish elects a priest, called a rector, who has spiritual jurisdiction in the parish and selects assistant clergy, both deacons and priests.

A self-sustaining congregation is called a parish and is governed by a Vestry made up of lay members from the congregation.

- A non-self-sustaining church is referred to as a mission and the priest is appointed by the Diocesan Bishop. The bishop approves the formation of a “Bishop’s Committee” from the congregation. The bishop is “officially” the rector of the mission.
- Parishes are combined into one of 110 dioceses throughout the United States, Columbia, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Haiti, Honduras, Puerto Rico, Taiwan, Venezuela, and the Virgin Islands.
- Dioceses are organized into provinces. Each province has a synod and a mission budget, but does not have authority over the member dioceses.
- At the national level, the church is governed by the triennial General Convention, consisting of:
  - The House of Deputies, made up of four laity and four clergy from each diocese, usually elected at the diocesan convention.
  - The House of Bishops, made up of all living bishops:
    - Diocesan Bishop, who is the head Bishop of the Diocese
    - Bishop Coadjutor, who is elected to succeed the Diocesan Bishop upon retirement
    - Suffragan Bishop, who is elected to assist the Diocesan Bishop as required (For example, Bishop for the Ordinal or Clergy, or in larger diocese, a particular region)
    - Assistant Bishop, usually a retired bishop who is asked by the Diocesan Bishop to perform certain function with a diocese such as mission work.
  - The General Convention elects a “Presiding” Bishop at every third triennial meeting (every nine years). This bishop represents the entire church on a national level as well as to the entire Anglican Communion.

Religious Principles and Key Terms

- Worship: In the broad sense, worship is based on the Book of Common Prayer. The primary service of the church is the Holy Eucharist or Holy Communion, the celebration of the Last Supper of Jesus Christ and sharing of the Sacrament.
- Book of Common Prayer (BCP): The full name is Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments and Other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church Together with the Psalter or Psalms of David According to the Use of the Episcopal Church. This book contains most of the worship services, or liturgies, used in the Episcopal Church. It is both a reflection and a source of theology for Episcopalians.
- Liturgy: The church’s public worship of God.
- Catechism: An outline of instruction in the Christian faith presented in a question and answer format. It is intended to serve as a point of departure for discussion by the catechist with those who seek to understand the beliefs and practices of the Episcopal Church.
- Eucharist: The sacrament of Christ’s body and blood, and the principal act of Christian worship. It may also be called the Lord’s Supper, Holy Communion, Divine Liturgy, Mass, or the Great Offertory. In the Book of Common Prayer, the entire service is entitled the Holy Eucharist.
- General Convention: Governing body of the Episcopal Church that meets every three years.
- Parish: Self-supporting congregation under a rector. In English Canon law, a parish is an area under the spiritual care of a priest.

- Diocese: Territorial jurisdiction of a diocesan bishop. It may also refer to the congregations and church members of the diocese. Each diocese usually meets annually in a diocesan convention.
- Bishop: One of the three orders of ordained ministers in the church, bishops are charged with the apostolic work of leading, supervising, and uniting the church. Bishops represent Christ and his church, and they are called to provide Christian vision and leadership for their dioceses. Bishops are elected at the diocesan conventions, subject to confirmation from the House of Bishops.
- Presiding Bishop: Chief Officer of the Episcopal Church, elected from and by the House of Bishops and confirmed by the House of Deputies at the General Convention. Each presiding bishop serves a term of nine years.

Role of Scouting in the Episcopal Church

- The National Episcopal Scouters Association (NESA) was formed in 2004 to promote Scouting in the Episcopal churches and support Episcopal Scouts and Scouters.
- NESA has the following objectives:
  - Support local Episcopal churches in their outreach and ministry to youth and families
  - Encourage Episcopal congregations to become chartered organizations of the Boy Scouts of America by using one or more Scouting programs as an integral part of the local church’s ministry
  - Recognize, strengthen, and help sustain existing Scouting units in the Episcopal churches
  - Encourage Episcopal churches to include the entire Scouting program
  - Encourage the spiritual growth of youths through involvement in the God and Country religious emblems program
  - Support the chaplaincy ministry in individual Scouting units as well as at the district and council levels, particularly at summer camp
  - Help Boy Scouts of America local councils promote the “Duty to God” concept and establish and support Scouting units in Episcopal churches
  - Serve as an advisory group to the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America in matters relative to Scouting in the Episcopal Church
  - Facilitate use of the Saint George award as recognition for adults involved with ministry to youth through Scouting under Episcopal churches
  - Provide training opportunities for Episcopal Scouters and other Episcopal leaders involved in Scouting activities
  - Where appropriate, encourage the organization of Episcopal committees on Scouting

Scouting Youth and Adult Recognitions

In 2010, according to P.R.A.Y., the God and Country religious emblems were earned by:
- 267 Cub Scouts
- 274 Webelos
- 99 Boy Scouts
- 43 Venturers
- 33 adults
